

Roy Drusky, Too Many Footprints

I've tried to tell myself it's not important you fell in love so many times before
But I won't be back to be another number there are too many footprints on your floor
Too many footprints on your floor and some of them were bigger shoes than mine
How many others have you kissed goodnight at your front door
There are too many footprints on your floor
[steel]
When I find love I wanna find a true love
I'm gonna stand where no one's stood before
So goodbye and if you must know why I'm leaving
There are too many footprints on your floor
Too many footprints...
