

Royksopp, I Had This Thing (feat. Jamie Irrepressible)

I had this thing to call my own
Just one slip and it was gone

A minor flaw and then it fell
I brought this house down on myself

I didn't know just what I'd done
I didn't know just what I'd done

I don't remember anymore what I used to be
Where is the quiet piece of home where I could breathe?

Just like a razor to my soul when I'm alone
I had this thing to call my own

I'm so confused, I cannot see
This wave of guilt is drowning me

It feels like blood is on my hands
I'd give it all for a second chance

I still don't know just what I've done
I still don't know just what I've done

I don't remember anymore what I used to be
There was a fire burning strong inside of me

Just like the soothing loving warmth of summer sun

I had this thing to call my own /3x

I never meant to let you go /4x