

Ruarri Joseph, A Turn In The Weather

The harder you fall is the stronger you stand
And a stretch of the road unwinds
Eternally bound to a light that surrounds you
To warm you a hundred times
While all of the dreams we unravel politely
Flicker but don't turn on
A turn in the weather
Will keep us together
So just hold on

The higher the wave is the deeper you swim
Through the chill of heart untouched
Expecting the worst but relentlessly trying
To sing to the world that hushed
While all of the hopes we examine precisely
Seem to be going wrong
A turn in the weather
Will keep us together
So just hold on

We are the days deserving bow
We are the words we speak still galloping on somehow
While all that divides is awake and decisive
Saying the roads too long
A turn in the weather will keep us together
So just hold on
