

Ruarri Joseph, Adam's Wing

Your world is in bits, coz nothing right fits
And youre single again
The room shakes its walls as the history falls
And youre losing a friend
Wish you could go back, the simpler track
Is appealing and easy
The money you burned is not what you earned
Because nothing is easy

You buried your head the moment she said
Things were not always cricket
You sat for a while in a state of denial
Until you thought you might miss it
As material goes and your world is exposed
Its the perfect occasion
To go start a fresh with what you have left
And high jubilation

And in the arms of home you venture through unknown
The world is over blown until you lose yourself in love
From under Adams wing, we too can dance and sing
The promises we bring until you lose yourself in love

You may not re-call when matters were small
But dont worry theyll come back
Youll soon find your niche and sink in your teeth
Like you never had contact
Keep quiet and hush, the world without rush
Is appealing and easy
And the money you burned is not what you earned
Because nothing is easy

And in the arms of home you venture through unknown
The world is over blown until you lose yourself in love
From under Adams wing, we too can dance and sing
The promises we bring until you lose yourself in love
