Rush, The Speed Of Love

Love is born with lightning bolts Electro-magnetic force Burning skin and fireworks A storm on a raging course Like a force of nature Love can fade with the stars at dawn Sometimes it takes all your strength Just to keep holding on

At the speed of love A radiance that travels At the speed of love My heart goes out to you

Love is born with solar flares From two magnetic poles It moves towards a higher plane Where two halves make two wholes Like a force of nature Love shines in many forms One night we are bathed in light One day carried away in the storms

At the speed of love Nothing changes faster Than the speed of love My heart goes out to you

We don't have to talk We don't even have to touch I can feel your presence In the silence that we share Got to keep moving At the speed of love Nothing changes faster Than the speed of love Got to keep on shining At the speed of love Nothing changes faster Than the speed of love

At the speed of love A radiance that travels At the speed of love My heart goes out to you