

Rx Bandits, Nothing Sacred

In our world's degradation we take for granted all we have
And all that we were given.

When was the last time that you looked up and gazed upon a shopping mall
And said, "how beautiful?"
So one more time you hear my voice,
we are the youth you have the choice.
So use it wisely.

They pave the world in concrete soon nothing,
will be natural, but only artificial...

Artificial and commercial a superficial front for what is wrong;
Human parasite.

So one more time you hear my voice,
we are the youth you have the choice.
So use it wisely.

Where could we have ever gone so wrong?

Nothing's sacred.

We're burning lands on consumer demands.

Nothing's sacred.