

Ryan Shupe & The RubberBand, Would You Love

I should've known she wouldn't listen
I should've known she'd pass me by
I should've known better than to listen to the lullaby
'Cause, It's a sad, sad song I hear
And a long, long road I fear without you, without you

Would you love me
Always trust me
Would you love me
If it won't hurt you at all
If it won't hurt you at all

I should've known she'd leave me standing
I should've known she wouldn't go
I should've known better than to turn on the television show
'Cause every time I look I see
The wrong episode is me without you, without you

Would you love me
Always trust me
Would you love me
If it won't hurt you at all
If it won't hurt you at all

So please be careful my heart
Right from the start
'Cause it's not that easy coming down
Before it all falls apart
Would it be so plain to see

Would you love me
Always trust me
Would you love me
If it won't hurt you at all
If it won't hurt you at all
