

Saint deamon, My Judas

You're dragging me down with you
I'm trapped in a nightmare that I can't wake up from You've taken my breath away
It feels like I'm drowning in the deepest sorrow
Your poison will bring me down
Down on my knees but I will always rise up
You turned your love to hate
But somehow I know that I will keep my strong faith
Something inside me is holding on
To what I believe in so you cant take my pride
You might be the winner of this fight
But time will tell that I'm right
All alone I'm falling deeper and deeper into sadness and hate
All alone I'm calling but no one seems to hear my cry for help
You betrayed my worn out soul with your lies
My Judas
After what's said and done
You will be defeated by your own stupidity
Nothing remains of you
Whatever happened to the man I once knew
Your desperate tries will fail
Times running out before the final curtain fall
At last you will stand alone
Just like a fool knowing you could have had it all
You ripped out my heart with
The sharpest knife I've ever seen in my life
Who would have thought
That anyone could be so damn close to me