

Saints of Eden, Lightscape

Crawling on my kness I'll find you. And if it takes me forever then for sure
I'll be there. This os a distant vision where there's something for me.

I'm on a journey where I combat fear.

Is this Lightscape never ending

I'm gonna kick it all down.

I caught a glimpse of you passing me by. But then you disappeared into the light.

It's so dark I feel I'll never arrive. They say the only way out is to feel it inside.

So if you'll give me the strenght in my hands I'll crawl -

Stretch out wide, but I can't feel the walls.

In my darkness I fall, no light to see. So where do I escape.

It could be anywhere.

A fear gives way to the pressure inside. And now I find that there's something not right.

A deep awareness of what surrounds me. And I don't understand the other side.