Salamandra, Dark Matter

When you get to the end of all the light you know so long and it's time to enter the mysterious.

Step in the darkness, the unknown even if you feel alone and it's time to enter the mysterious.

Share all your feelings in your heart with the nightlight and the sky and the day is far from you.

Dreams disappear in universe chasing splinters of your life and reflects the time on you.

Seems all the stars and galaxies moving at the speed to light and it's time to enter the mysterious.

Lights in the darkness of the space high and glitter everywhere and it's time to enter the mysterious.

Share all your feelings in your heart with the nightlight and the sky and the day is far from you.

Dreams disappear in universe chasing splinters of your life and reflects the time on you.

See and open your mind to million of stars that shine on you brightly see and open your mind to million of srars feel with your soul the eternity.

Share all your feelings in your heart with the nightlight and the sky and the day is far from you.

Dreams disappear in universe chasing splinters of your life and reflects the time on you.

See and open your mind to million of stars that shine on you brightly see and open your mind to million of srars feel with your soul the eternity.

See and open your mind to million of stars that shine on you brightly see and open your mind to million of srars feel with your soul the eternity.