

Sam Brown, Sometimes You Just Don't Know

Out on the street with his dreams in his pocket A handful of nothing but a lot of heart he says 'i'm gonna make it I'll take on the world gonna make things better than the way they are'
feast or famine fortune or fold sometimes you just don't know you roll the dice with your heart and soul but sometimes you just don't know live it on the line or hide in a hole
When the longer you try and the harder it seems you know that you'll find what will be will be don't give up when the doors won't open keep on trying 'cos you hold the key feast or famine fortune or fold
