

Sam Phillips, Wheel Of The Broken Voice

silence and rage
the scars of a daughter he gave me the knife i held it in deep water together we make the perfect question there's never enough to go around it's a cup with a hole and the love pours on the ground wheel of the broken voice talking to you hearing another past covers truth and watches it smother