

Sam Roberts, Rarefied

The air tonight is rarefied
It's all I need, the air I breathe

You're burning all my bridges baby
Set your sights as low as they can go

You take up all my time little woman
You take up all my time
(My dreams tonight are sanctified)
You say your sun don't shine little honey,
You want a piece of mine
(They're all I need, they fill my sleep
The air is thin up here little darling,
The air is thin up here
But I won't shed no tears little sister
I won't shed no tears

you say you won't be a friend of mine
But you can't be my lover cause you take up all my time, yeah

The clock says five a.m. little honey
The clock says five a.m.
And you're just coming in little sister,
You're just coming in
