

Sam Salter, Every Time A Car Drives By

I really need you baby
Oh girl

Every night, I wanna write
And tell you just how I feel
Girl you know
Every day, I wanna call and say
I still need you in my life for real
See I'm all alone, the silence in the phone
Hasn't reached out to touch me lately
Girl it hurts me so, you just let me go
And I'm slowly losin' my mind

[Hook]
Every time a car drives by
I see that look in your eye
Tellin' me that you're gonna be home soon
Every time a car drives by
I see that look in your eye
Tellin' me that you're on your way
Girl I'm dyin' inside, will you return from your ride
And make everything ok

'Til then, when a car drives by with that look in your eye
I'll be slowly losin' my mind

Even though I already know
You won't be comin' home
Girl I have to try and stay and fight
For the love I must call my own
I'm still holding on through I know you're gone
I'll probably never hold you close again
Now and then I remember where and when
Girl I've slowly lost my mind

Any two door will do, (there's no need for complication)
I can't help but feel you, (I'm trying to be patient)
But every time I'm at my window
The tears fall, (the tears fall)
The rain falls, (the rain falls)
My heart calls out louder and louder to you
