Santana, The Nile

Woke up into a dream And I was walking Up and down the streets Of Cairo

And then I heard a voice That said I know you Its time for you to turn And face me

Her hair was long Her eyes reached out and touched me She said I know just What it is youre after

Death is all around you So you look for freedom I know where to find it Lets go to the river

We sailed upon the Nile I was enchanted By the beauty in her magic She showed me that my fears were unimportant And then she touched me With her vision

Her skin was dark Her voice was liquid fire She said I am your mate And souls desire

Love is all around you Light is deep within you Life is always flowing Lets go down the river
