

Sara Bareilles, Bittersweet

Bittersweet seasons. Mistake a warm winter for spring.
Seems like I'm best at leaving when leaving is not the best thing.

You couldn't help it if you needed more than I could give
That's just the way it goes.

I call you misplaced but never a waste of my time
Everybody's gonna make mistakes
But you'll never be one of mine

You couldn't help it if you needed more than I could give
That's just the way it goes.
I knew you felt me leaving long before I ever did
That's just the way it goes now.
Loved me fearless when you needed to
You would not rest till you came through
So God bless and thank you.

There is no anger is just you and I and the truth
You can try to make her but love will not be forced to bloom

You couldn't help it if you needed more than I could give
That's just the way it goes.
The only love worth fighting for is one that you can win and
That's just the way it goes now.
You would not break but you could bend
And for love's sake you let love end
But I still swear that you were God sent

And you stood before me knowing that the wings i have you gave
And that's just the way it goes
And I barely have the breath to breathe much less to fly
And a silence entered the room for a one last
I'm gonna love you.
So God bless and thank you.
