Sarah Blasko, Amazing Things

Fallen like a soldier, tragically you are at war You think youre not Caught within a fragment of yourself Do you think youre something you are not?

You look like a lover You feel like a nervous wreck It cuts in the night It hurts like an oversight

You long to feel the most amazing things But youve come undone cause you have held it in Your eyes have seen the most amazing things

Falling like a rock into an ocean There is something you forgot Only you decided that you had to go and fight Until you lost

You look like a fighter You couldnt recognise yourself Now youre cursing the night Youre watching the seconds die

You long to feel the most amazing things But youve come undone cause you have held it in And your eyes have seen the most amazing things And this love you fear is such a precious thing