Sarah Blasko, The Woman By The Well

Lately i find that you know me Better than i know myself, Like a woman who's lost herself By the water's edge, Her reflecteion was taken by the tide,

I just want you around, I want you around,

Seconds and hours pass slowly I move them all by myself, I can feel that i'm aging, My hair is turning black, There's a rythm behind it That you can't know,

Still, i want you around, & more lost than found, & more lost than found,

Shine a light on my misery, Wake the child from her sleep, Wipe the eyes of the dewy morning, The waters so deep.
