Sarah Brightman, In Aranjuez With Your Love

Aranjuez, a place of dreams and love Where a rumour of crystal fountains in the garden seems to whisper to the roses Aranjuez, today the dry leaves without colour which are swept by the wind Are just reminders of the romance we once started And that we've forsaken without reason Maybe this love is hidden in one sunset In the breeze or in a flower Waiting for your return Aranjuez, today the dry leaves without colour which are swept by the wind Are just reminders of the romance we once started And that we've forsaken without reason In Aranjuez, my love You and I