

Sasha, Kissing My Love

Originally by Bill Withers

When I'm kissing my love,
I can hear a thump thumping in my head
When I'm kissing my love
I close my eyes and see a pretty city with a thousand flower beds

I can hear the angels sing,
Songs that only angels sing
She's such a pretty thing and my heart just a-thumping and a-skipping
When I'm kissing my love

When I'm kissing my love,
I feel the blood pump-pumping in my veins
When I'm kissing my love
She's such a tender sender with a sweet young frame.

She's so good at what she does,
All she wants to do is kiss and hug,
She's got me in love
And I can feel my heart just a-thumping and a skipping
When I'm kissing my love

When I'm kissing my love,
I feel the blood pump-pumping in my veins
When I'm kissing my love
She's such a tender sender with a sweet young frame.

She's so good at what she does,
All she wants to do is kiss and hug,
She's got me in love
And I can feel my heart just a-thumping and a skipping
When I'm kissing my love
