

Savatage, Can you hear me now

If I closed my eyes
Would it all subside
To an echo in the night
Of a distant fading light
Then a strangers silhouette
A burning cigarette
And somewhere in the haze
A passage through the maze
And can you hear me now
Or are there just too many doors
Between then and now
For me to ever reach on through
And pull you back somehow
But that cant happen anymore
Still still in the night
I think I hear you calling
I have walked this stage
As the music played
They knew every word
But they never heard
For they never changed
Its all very strange
As Im standing here
Contemplating years
And can you hear me now
Or are there just too many doors
Between then and now
For me to ever reach on through
And pull you back somehow
But that dont happen anymore
Still in the dark
Id swear I hear you calling