Savatage, Jesus Saves

Jesus was a talker
Out of place New Yorker
Hung out on the boulevard
Sellin' nickel candies
Saving all his quarters
Bought himself a cheap guitar
Started playing' bars
The kids came in their cars
You'd hear them shouting at the stage

(Chorus)

Jesus saves Jesus saves

Jesus started changin'
Things got really strange
He saw his tee shirts everywhere
Started missing shows
The band came down to blows
But Jesus He no longer cared

Things got out of hand And so he quit the band But still the critics they would rave

Jesus saves Jesus saves Her him cut through the night On your late night radio waves

So the dice were cast Today became the past And Jesus He just disappeared Headed for New York Or so his label thought And there he gave away the years

Last seen drinking wine Beneath a flashing sign Promising salvation to strays

Jesus saves Jesus saves Her Him cut through the night On your late night radio waves
