

Saves The Day, Blindfolded

So now I've made the decision to walk behind you in the dark for the rest of my life and I'll never show my face again because it's too scarred and bloody to be enough and I don't have the right stuff-all I have are the empty boxes to carry away your heart and I think that tonight I will sneak into your house and I'll sing songs and wake you up and I'll take you blindfolded dancing onto bridges and you'll say you don't to be with me 'cause no one ever does and no one ever thinks of me that way but I will even drive you home if you never let me forget about you and if you promise me that I'm good enough for someone 'cause I've got to be good enough for you and someday soon I'll get it right and then you'll see just how good I can be so don't ask me about forever because right now I'm feeling lost but there's got to be some place for me because if there isn't where will I go?
Will there be some place for me and will you be waiting there for me?
If and when we get there please catch me before I crawl all the way home but I won't stop until you do.
