Saving Jane, Reasons Why

In the company of strangers I am less than fine I am turning into wallpaper before your eyes Somehow I always end up on the wrong side of this fight One day I will get it right And I am not so hollow I have nothing left for you to borrow Maybe it's not too late For me to fly Maybe you underestimated me And now it's time Cause I am tired of this fire And I don't need your reasons why No more choking on regrets to keep you satisfied I am coming up for air out of this heavy night Oh, the scenery is different when you're not so small I think I can take this fall I am not so hollow I have nothing left to borrow [Chorus] Light up the sky for me, oh I've been down too long And when you turn your eyes to see me, I'll be gone [Chorus]