

Say Anything, About Falling

The tide rolls by and I wonder why I felt inclined to try,
My starry eyes were sacrificed
The sea divides but I don't wanna get lost in the ocean
I don't wanna get lost in the ocean now

And as our single climbs the charts,
I feed on their virgin blood from their bleeding hearts with my pants around my ankles, I play my part
I built the ark but I don't wanna get lost in the ocean
Earth starts spinning around to the motion

But I don't really even care if I'm alone now,
Whoa whoa
And I don't even give a damn about falling in love,
Falling in love
Body burdened by my heavy heart of stone now
Whoa whoa
And I don't really give a damn about falling in love

And I don't really even care if I'm alone now
Their flesh is sustenance; I cackle as I prey upon the weak poor
I have no feeling and this prison is a home
I have no heart, I sold my soul
And I don't really even care if you're listening

"Why won't you wait for me?"
"Why aren't you waiting for me?"
Never again
