

Say Anything, Plea

Please run, please run
Please run away with me

Please come, please come
Please come and stay with me

I don't know what to do if once more I lose you
It will tear me in two

If you should go right now I want to see you but I don't know how
I slit this cut in the black expanding sky
The rain bleeds out before my jaded eyes
To live without your love I don't know how

On and on I go in this world lusting after every empty girl
As the smoke spat from the rifle slowly swirls
But I can't explain how I feel
And all I know tonight is that it's real

I'm praying, darling:
Maybe someday we, together can be the king and queen
(Make me believe you mean this)
Maybe someday we, together can be the king and queen
(I'll believe this when I see it)

Maybe someday we, together can be the king and queen of all I've seen
