

Say Lou Lou, Better in the Dark

They say that everyday is a new beginning,
But I know I'm not alone when the darkness hits me
We dream all day in black and white,
And when the sun comes down and we learn to live again
We waste away the darkest light
And When the sun comes down and we learn to love again

It feels better, it feels better in the dark
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart and nothing can come between us
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart and nothing can come between us

Light the flash before my eyes & the curtain's open
I knew the sound, a familiar line when the spell is broken

We dream all day in black and white,
And when the sun comes down and we learn to live again
We waste away the darkest light
And When the sun comes down and we learn to love again

It feels better, it feels better in the dark
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart and nothing can come between us
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart and nothing can come between us

We dream all day in black and white,
And when the sun comes down and we learn to live again
We waste away the darkest light
And When the sun comes down and we learn to love again

It feels better in the Dark
It feels better in the Dark

It feels better, it feels better in the dark
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart & nothing can come between us
It feels better, it feels better in the dark
I feel closer to your heart & nothing can come between us