

Scabs, You're So Fresh And You're So Fine

At first you were unwanted you were disgusting and snarly
You were terribly unwieldy you were stinky you were gnarly
You acted like a baby and you acted like a brat
I could never figure out just were your head was at
I thought you might be crazy yeah I thought you might be stupid
But I got a little drunk one night and ended up with cupid's
Arrow in my heart and now I find
That I really just don't mind
'Cause you're so fresh and you're so fine
You're the one I've got to make mine

You used to drive by my house baby always after dark
And you used to wake my parents when the dogs would start to bark
I used to see you hanging with those girls I couldn't stand
And I used to think to myself she must think that she's high demand
But baby that was long ago before I saw you as you are
Before you ever took the keys and totally fked up my new car
But baby over time I've come to find
That I really just don't mind
'Cause you're so fresh and you're so fine
You're the one I've got to make mine

You used be a big shot you know they used to say
That you were cold as ice and half as nice cause of the games you used to play
You used to have a reputation baby it wasn't very good
They used to talk about you baby all the time down in the hood
They used to say you'd take a man and eat him up and spit him out
But baby these were things I never saw and only heard about
And over time I've come to find
That I really just don't mind
'Cause you're so fresh and you're so fine
You're the one I've got to make mine
