School Boy Humor, Rhapsody Of The Seas

I wasn't looking at the ocean this time as we watched the waves eroding the shoreline No, I was looking at the sparkles in her eyes
I was looking at an angel in disguise

But honestly this won't hurt me because no one can get hurt when their pulse is dying and their heart stops beating And honestly this can't kill me because no one can be killed when their bones have broken and their heart stops working

I love you, I miss you, and I'm getting tired
They say "absence darkens heart and desire"
But we'll show them; take my hand because we know them They're skeptics elected to make hearts reluctant

I wasnt looking at the setting sun this time as we watched the full moon steal our night sky No, all I wanted was to steal her heart; please surrender
I have a feeling we're the meaning of forever

Smile, because God gave you lips Hurt, because God gave you a heart
He gave you, he gave me

. . . to make hearts reluctant
. . . to let go, I couldn't