Scratchingpost, Gracie

Thought I was special to you Thought I meant something to you I was delusional Mistaken as usual

You past up on something good But somehow I knew you would Right there infront of you Was someone too good for you

I'll take my heart and throw it in the sand Where no one can find it Into the ocean even better still Where no one can find it

You can't make me feel this way The same low again today You've proven yourself this time That your not a friend of mine

And when your alone tonight I'll know I'd done something right For all that you've done to me Your welcome for everything

I'll take my heart and throw it in the sand Where no one can find it Into the ocean even better still Where no one can find it

I'll take my heart and throw it in the sand Where no one can find it Into the ocean even better still Where no one can find it