Seals and Crofts, Hustle

(lyrics by Paul Williams; music by Charles Fox, 1977) From the album ONE ON ONE (1977).

Pull the stops out, watch my hustle. Would you believe I was once a. . .[?] Would you believe I was even as shy as a child. It's so hard for the mind to fathom, so don't try.

I feel like tripping the light fantastic. I've never been more enthusiastic. My mind. . . [?] I'm a stone gladiator on a mood elevator. In the thick of the fight, I just smile. Pull the stops out, watch my hustle. (repeat)
