Sear Bliss, Hate Blade

We rise from the deaths And we are holding our swords Our heart is filled With pride and might untold With our spiritual brothers we shall gather To fight side by side in the mightiest battle And we shall use our mental force for we are transcendent We are gifted with the energy of universe

Join our army And fight in this spiritual battle

The memory of conquering Still lives in our heart And we daydream a time When we'll be in warfare We have no time to loose Triumphantly we'll awake the flame Its embers lie inside (for a long time) Waiting for this day When we declare war With the purest feelings in our heart With the bitterest memories in wind Why should we forget those whom we hate inside?