Sebastian Bach, You Bring Me Down

I wait for you to sacrifice Hopin again, again You'll raise me up again to life You will save me know

I am less than I have been This is the falling Become nothing man again You just break me down

There is nothing more in this life to take away Until my dying day You bring me down You bring me down You bring me down You bring me down

I opened up another door Looking for you there No one can light the darkened room Who will save me now? Who will save me now?

After everything that you tried to put me through All you ever do Is bring me down You bring me down You bring me down You bring me down, down

After everything that you tried to put me through All you ever do Is bring me down You bring me down

You just bring me down You just bring me down You just bring me down
