

Second Chance, My Silhouette

i'm watching your eyes move slowly up and down my silhouette and I wonder if you get it yet this is the last time I crawl away on broken knees and don't you wish it would be ok promise me you'll forget me you said as you walked away don't hold on please let go of me you make it so hard to leave and I can't breath with out you here for fear i'll catch your scent and we both know how bad I get I don't do well or dwell in change and don't you know that three small words could make this all okay

you promised me
you'll never forget me
you promised me
you'll never forget

you promised me