

Sense Field, First Thing First

tell me the first thing you feel when you're taking in air
tell me the first thing you feel when your body could care less about the time of day about what people say
tell me the first thing you feel after you close your eyes do you recognize the voice that's been telling you all this time he's been watching over you listening to every single word thinking out everything do you realize
he's been watching over you
listening to every single song singing out everything
tell me the first thing you feel when I reach to touch you tell me the first thing you feel when you smile and cry
do you recognize
the voice that's been telling you all this time
he's been watching over you
listening to every single word
thinking out everything
do you realize
he's been watching over you
listening to every single song
singing out everything... its about time I'll race you home...