

Sentenced, Killing Me Killing You

Baby, have you seen, there is a snake in our paradise
A serpent that's wriggling between us and freezing our feelings to ice

And with each drop of blood we bleed because of this something so precious dies and it feels it really is...

Killing Me Killing You
Killing all we have
As our loves wither away

Burning Me Burning You
Burning us to ash
Drowning us in a sea of flames

Darling, do you feel, there is a storm coming our way
The burning light between us is already starting to fade
The fire in our hearts is smothered by the rain and the crimson flame of passion turns into something gray

And with each drop of blood our shattered hearts ever bleed something so precious dies and is lost eternally

Killing Me Killing You
Killing all we have
As our loves wither away

Burning Me Burning You
Burning us to ash
Drowning us in a sea of flames

Each teardrop from your eyes makes something inside me die Each of these days that draws us part takes a piece from my heart

Kill me kill me kill me again with your love and chase the storm away Bring me bring me bring me the end with your love and haunt the demons away

Killing Me Killing You
Killing all we have
As our loves wither away

Burning Me Burning You
Burning us to ash
Drowning us in a sea of flames

Kill me kill me kill me again with your love and chase the snake away
Bring me bring me bring me the end with your love and haunt the serpent away
