

Serena Paris, So I Wait

Contemplating every day
Wondering if I'm wasting all of my time
You know I'm dedicating every thought
On only you
{my momma used to tell me that patience is a virtue}

And so I wait through the night
Cause tomorrow you might find
That will you need me again for some tender lovin' care
So I wait, hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

And so I wait all my life
Hoping one day you will see that
Love's a lock you're the key
You will come and rescue me
So I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

It gets frustrating time and again
But I am not complaining
Cause in the end
If I just keep believing, no matter what
I'll be with you
{my momma used to tell me that patience is a virtue}

And so I wait through the night
Cause tomorrow you might find
That will you need me again for some tender lovin' care
So I wait, hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

And so I wait all my life
Hoping one day you will see that
Love's a lock you're the key
You will come and rescue me
So I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

{that patience is a virtue}
{that patience is a virtue}
{that patience is a virtue}

And so I wait through the night
Cause tomorrow you might find
That will you need me again for some tender lovin' care
So I wait, hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

So I wait all my life
Hoping one day you will see that
Love's a lock you're the key
You will come and rescue me
So I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you