

Serial Joe, You Don't Laugh

Brought you flowers
Diamond rings
Tried to bring you the finer things
Lent my shoulder when you would cry
Gave you my strength to get by
A golden locket
A clasp of hair
But the feeling wasn't there
Guess there's nothing I can do
How is it I'm away from you

Did all I could
Here's where I stood
When those words came out

CHORUS:

You don't laugh anymore
You don't wait by the door
You don't comfort me
Or do the things
That meant so much before

Left those roses by your bed
Left that kiss upon your head
Told you that I loved that smile
Didn't know that all the while
You were needing something more
More than I'd been looking for
Guess there's nothing I could do
How is it I'm away from you

Did all I could
Here's where I stood
When those words came out

CHORUS:

You don't laugh anymore
You don't wait by the door
You don't comfort me
Or do the things
That meant so much before

Wish for silence
To blanket the pain
Hope for the will
To get through it again

CHORUS:

You don't laugh anymore
You don't wait by the door
You don't comfort me
Or do the things
That meant so much before

You don't comfort me
Or do the things
