

Sesame Street, The Ankle, The Shoulder, And The Knee

David: Oh, your knee is kind of roundish, like an orange or an egg.

All three: Oh, ABC

Maria: Oh, the shoulder is a joint that holds your body to your arm.
And everybody's got them, on the city, on the farm.
They're useful if you want to wave hello or wave goodbye.
And if you want to wiggle them, it's easy if you try!

All three: Oh, ABC, hope, when you are older,
You'll still sing a song about a shoulder!

Luis: And if anybody kicks you there, it isn't any fun!

All three: Oh, ABC, a jinkle and a jankle.
Hard to rhyme a silly word like ankle.

All three: Oh, ABC and 1-2-3!
That's all for the ankle, the shoulder, and the knee!
