

Seven Channels, Velcro Parade

Welcome to the Velcro Parade everybody now march out the shade I know that it's a lonely place to be sometimes I know I could be wrong but everybody sings the song the only thing I know is how much I miss ya

You're between the silver sand and moon above not some kind of solar panel love and how I wish you were here with me to inject into my vein your love and mystery

I've got the motion to fly even though I might fall out the sky and crash into the things I'm afraid and I fall through this cellophane floor seems like I've here before It's cold outside and I know that I need ya
