

Seven Mary Three, Upside Down

I've got pockets full of rocks and twisted sleepy sheets I don't know what to say - I make death defying leaps towards you everyday until we're orbiting I can almost hear your thoughts and see your missing angles Don't go that way you might fall in like a stone Collect your doubts and set them on the wet black bough
First kisses, near misses teacher hisses "tell me what you've learned" Everything I thought I wanted in this world has got me turned upside down
If these suburban stalls we've made our own decisions to break away and start again with dirt and gravel A circle has been broken but another reappears Its smaller but stronger than it ever was before Broken branches see them shake your family tree There's no new leaves just petals on
the wet black bough
First kisses, near misses,
teacher hisses "tell me what we've learned?"
Everything I thought I wanted in this world has got me turned upside down [x3]
Don't go that way
you might sink in like a stone Collect your doubt and set it on a wet black bough
First kisses, near misses,
teacher hisses "tell me what we've learned?"
has got me turned
upside down [x3]
