

Seventh Wonder, Break The Silence

I think about love and the things that I've done

A heart open wide and I stabbed a knife

How could I feel, the way that I felt?

I'd swear it was love and was heaven sent

You set me free, never cared for me..

I needed love, a touch from your hand

I need to feel you care

Then there he was, made me feel whole inside...

This burden of guilt tears me up

You must believe I tried

Is everyone here?

There is no need to feel any fear

We're handing out rations

Food and water, clothing, shelter...

- Bring all those left to me!

- Please understand in this cold wind that blows that it's heavy

That lazy boy can help

there's no way you could make it through

I will not be patronized by you!

But my back may hurt so OK - bring it away!

I don't want to stray

Make sure you stay in front of me

(the rascal will steal)

Sheer desperation in her voice

Let the music play!

Let it go all the way

Join me - watching two souls seek for fire

In a world beyond the one we know

Yin and Yang, black and white

The colors fading

We're gonna break the silence

The fort, for the fire...

As they were walking somehow

They got into talking

Brings her own and mind back to times

When the fire burned inside

- What could he offer me?

Don't understand it

It's crazy, this old primadonna...

But the face in my mind is it her?

Can't shake these feelings within me

- We are close to home now any way

Thanks for the help, here's a dime

- Now off you go!

Now I gotta run

But something calls me back again

(something draws me near)

Sheer desperation in my mind

Need to find out why

Have to get back again

Join me...
