

Seventh Wonder, Destiny Calls

Falling forsaken through the dark

Tick-tock time is ticking backwards

Can't deny

Watching a man spawned from a kiss

Settle a coin toss for this old loss

It's alright now they cannot hold me down

Blinded eyes open before us

- I just don't know why

That the two men gone forever in time

Open up my mind tonight

Open up my eyes

When destiny calls I'm a man who will rise above the fire

Paradise - waits forever

I won't apologize - from the shadows

I rise to her warm embrace

When love hurts...

I will always find a way to carry you

Since we have the truth

Bothering visions I can see
Left all alone inside this house

Of fear and night

Crying in the hallway on my knees...

Battling a stranger who will change her

I'm alright now but I can't figure out the things I am feeling inside me

- I just had to cry

And the love survived
Through oceans of time
Not one of us will leave tonight
But only one will stay

When destiny calls I'm a man
Who will rise above the fire
In her eyes - destiny calls
I went beyond all lies - from the shadows
I rise to her loving face

Is there someone there I feel so scared
Playtime's over now
I open the door and sit by the age-old mirror

Raise my head and stare into broken eyes of another

I have found myself, locked in the both of them
Hear me now,
I'm throwing my bonds away!
Throwing all my bonds away!