Shaaman, Blind Spell

From the day you took me home I knew I was not alone And all the pain I had seemed to be gone

Running backwards to the edge, Things I don't dare to confess You've locked my secrets in a blind spell...

Oh, never leave me Never walk away There's a spell on me that, for me, Could spell the end

If your feelings fall apart And you can't sustain your heart It's time to realise what you really are

Oh, please believe me I've been so ashamed Take your spell from me, it could drive me To the end

Sometimes we run, Sometimes we hide inside a hole and fade away We turn to stone And let the weather carve its traces To open your eyes one day...

Should I throw myself in the oceans of time? Without you will I ever dare to survive?

Sometimes we run, Sometimes we hide inside a hole and fade away We turn to stone And let the weather carve its traces To open your eyes one day...

Help me, help me to open my eyes someday ...
