Shaded Red, Caught

I can see you bought the delusion I don't want any more of your lies Call your bluff, and end the confusion No more smiles, it tears you inside

Don't go runnin' to all your excuses All your little thoughts keep flying round Escape will never come that easy Your head will spin around I've caught you now

I can tell your mind's like cold-fusion Could all work, but not in real life Pull the plug and break the illusion Look to me, I'll light you inside

I was good to you Never was untrue You went the other way To lie another day Still I call to you Tear my heart in two Just to let you know I love you