

Shades Apart, Strange Lightning

The rain taps on the window down the hall there's no one out there nothing at all reaching out strange lightning from above looking up nothing to be scared of take away the wonder take away the world

you better not forget

it's quiet now the wind begins to slow someone's standing there please don't go forever new and still the same you can help things stay this way all clear now how fast it came and went someone's standing there don't let it end