

Shades Apart, Stranger By The Day

Snow is falling from the sky
In the middle of July
Sun was shining in my eyes again last night
Alarm goes off without a sound
The silence is so loud
Something isn't right

Footsteps echo down the hall
No one's there at all
Dial your number but your voice says "I'm not home"
Everything is inside out
I don't know what it's about

It keeps getting stranger by the day
Stranger by the day
It keeps getting stranger by the day
Stranger by the day

Going for a walk outside
To see what I can find
No reflection in the windows I pass by
It feels hotter in the shade
Water's runs up from the drain
Something's going on

Conversations with a mime
Stared at by the blind
Imagination must be working overtime
The world is upside down
Everything is turned around

It keeps getting stranger by the day
Stranger by the day
It keeps getting stranger by the day
Stranger by the day

By the time I reach your door
I can't take anymore
I just happened to be in your neighborhood
I'm the one who gets surprised
I don't believe my eyes
Your alibi's no good

Whatever happened to the world
Whatever happened to the girl
I thought I knew
It just can't be true
I guess I'm losing you

Stranger by the day
Stranger by the day
It keeps getting,
Stranger by the day
Stranger by the day
