Shades Apart, Stranger By The Day

Snow is falling from the sky In the middle of July Sun was shining in my eyes again last night Alarm goes off without a sound The silence is so loud Something isn't right

Footsteps echo down the hall No one's there at all Dial your number but your voice says "I'm not home" Everything is inside out I don't know what it's about

It keeps getting stranger by the day Stranger by the day It keeps getting stranger by the day Stranger by the day

Going for a walk outside To see what I can find No reflection in the windows I pass by It feels hotter in the shade Water's runs up from the drain Something's going on

Conversations with a mime Stared at by the blind Imagination must be working overtime The world is upside down Everything is turned around

It keeps getting stranger by the day Stranger by the day It keeps getting stranger by the day Stranger by the day

By the time I reach your door I can't take anymore I just happened to be in your neighborhood I'm the one who gets surprised I don't believe my eyes Your alibi's no good

Whatever happened to the world Whatever happened to the girl I thought I knew It just can't be true I guess I'm losing you

Stranger by the day Stranger by the day It keeps getting, Stranger by the day Stranger by the day
