

Shadow Host, Echo Of Sunrise

sometimes I felt your cold leave me... save me... leave me... heal me... leave me alone, my sun, you know my pain and my fear have you heard my cry when I was blinded by your cold light have you heard?
I am your child, your hope, your dream just dream that never will become reality my song bears under the burden of your beams and turns into insanity my reflection smiles to me (from your mirror)
I see nothing except my tears no, I feel no pain inside I left my pain in the night and I accept your poisoning light no, I feel no fear inside hear my song as well as I hear the unborn child's cry you'll never melt into dew drops frozen illusions of my fantasy so freeze now remembrance they get me back in nightmare of my broken destiny you'll never warm my heart by your crystal tears your cold light so burn to ashes all years that I left behind the notes of my song turned to ashes and gold runes of book of my destiny wiped off to dust no, I feel no life inside my song is echo of sunrise a whispering of the dead lowtide
no, I feel no fear inside
hear my song as well as I hear
the unborn child's cry
rising shadows from the dusk filling up my dreams I see nothing like your light to pull me off this pain leave me... save me... leave me... pull me... hear these last words of my song read between the lines of life it's only echo of sunrise - I'll never see the morning no, I see no sign outside oh, please, release me from this deadly kind no, I hear no words inside take my hand
I stay on the other side now I'm going far from you I to meet the dead moonlight I'm going to the neverland where the unborn children cry...