

Shadowkeep, Fear And Loathing

You sensed the motions amongst the clouds
You should have feared the lightning strike

We have enough
Of your madman's intuitions that hide the truth behind the curtains
We can believe what we see and Gods we grew up with but your black hole paradise leads us to a dead end road

Fear and loathing is the result of a chain reaction - the lightning strikes again
Fear and loathing is the reward for the change you brought - the lightning strikes again

It will only take a minute
And the pain you feel will go away, yeah
Mercy killing will satisfy our needs
And the moral aftermath is not as important as it seems

Fear and loathing is the result of a chain reaction - the lightning strikes again
Fear and loathing is the reward for the change you brought - the lightning strikes again

release, release this pain

Fear and loathing is the result of a chain reaction - the lightning strikes again
Fear and loathing is the reward for the change you brought - the lightning strikes again